

Columbia Valley Credit Union seeks to inform membership of AGM irregularity

Columbia Valley Credit Union held an election to fill three vacancies on their board of directors during their Annual General Meeting on April 19th, 2018. However, due to an error in voting instructions provided, this election was conducted contrary to the credit union's rules. This resulted in an invalid election process and therefore no directors were elected.

In accordance with Columbia Valley's rules, their existing board has appointed Glen Ewan, Nola Milum and Paul Ricard as interim directors to fill the current vacancies and prevent disruption to the credit union's activities. The three appointees will serve on the board until the conclusion of their next Annual General Meeting.
